I am a graduate from the School of Advertising Art. I have a great passion for inspiring designs and effective marketing strategies that work cohesively. I believe that these two elements are essential for any company or campaign. I am also an aspiring motion designer. I believe that motion takes storytelling to the next level, and helps companies reach their consumers in a more personal way. My goal is to be the best hybrid designer that I can be, and in turn use my talents in an impactful way.
